

GDPE Weekly Digest

Dear GDPE Community,
Are the changes in weather giving you whiplash yet?
It's good bye to fresh garden greens, but at least hello
to breathable air.
Nominations for fall speakers are due this week, and the call for proposals for small grants is out.
Best, Ruth

From the gates of Mordor to the earliest
snow fall on record.
That's 2020
for you!

ECOLOGY EVENTS

Terry Chapin will be discussing his book, "Grassroots Stewardship: Sustainability Within Our Reach" September 10th, 6:00 PM Mountain time. You can join on facebook or zoom. I (Ruth) was an undergraduate when Terry was a young professor, and I can attest that he's a remarkably insightful person. He writes, "For me, this seems like the most important thing I've written." That is saying a lot. It's about the future of nature and society, aimed at scholars and general readers who care.
